questions. Now they were forced into the fight by the liquor men, and the majority of them became enthusiastic supporters of the reform.

This is how it comes about that the burning question in Ohio politics to-day is the temperance issue. The Democrats wisely choose to ignore the issue, except as a bone of contention within the Republican lines, for what can be urged, anyway, in defence of their policy of "Free Whiskey and No Sunday" f Republican speakers will set forth the fact that the money of the liquor men is poured out in support of Democratic candidates upon the State ticket. They will urge that the election of the Republican ticket will encourage the Legislature next winter to pass a new tax law which shall not be obnoxious to the Constitution—one that will force the saloons to contribute to the support of State institutions, and that will largely reduce the number of saloons; or, failing in that, to prepare constitutional amendments paving the way for such a consummation. They will show that Democratic success now will be the beginning of a new era of unrestricted and untaxed traffic in liquors, with all its attendant evils. The outcome of the struggle is in doubt. The Democratic gains from the action of the hiquor men are positive and considerable. The Republicans are partially compensated by the return to enthusiastic fellowship of some thousands of temperance prodigals.

There are indications that church-going, peace-loving Democrats, who do not like the new alliance of their party, will join the Republicans in the movement for reform, but their numbers cannot now be estimated. The liquor men and their followers on the other, and the politicians of either party, are wide awake, but the voting masses have not yet been reached; but the keuphrican speakers expect to be able, in the five weeks intervening between this time and election day, to overcome the indifference which is too characteristic of Republican voters in an "off" year.

Probably the Stalwarts will be more ready on their side for an entirely new ticket when they find, as soon as the active campaign begins, how thoroughly they are deceiving themselves regarding the strength of the Independent move-

A good many persons, whose judgment should be sound refuse to beheve the rumors that Senator Cameron will give up Beaver's election as hepeless and concentrate his efforts on the election of State Senators who will vote for his own reelection in 1885. The general feeling appears to be that he cannot afford to give up Beaver at any time. The defeat of Beaver will be his own and final defeat, and he must work and scheme to the very end, though the chances may seem desperate. The probability is, therefore, that he will "pull even" on Beaver and the State Senators.

ARRESTED AT HIS MOTHER'S HOUSE.

Patrick Reynolds, a homeless man, forty years old, was found insensible at Broadway and Fifty-seventh-st. on Saturday, night and was removed to the Rooseveit Hospital. The surgeons discovered that the man's skull had been fractured, but the police of the Twenty-second precluct were not informed of the fact until the following day. It was believed at first that Reynolds had received his injury by an accidental fall. He was known as a dissipated man who worked occa-sionally in a stone yard. Captain Killilea and his detectives icarned late on Sunday night that Reynoids had been knocked down in the street in a dispute, and that his nead had struck against the curb-stoke. Robert Robinson, a young blacksmith, who had boarded at No. 223 West Sixteenth-si, was accused of striking the blow. The detectives went to Robinson's boarding house and sarned that he had gone to the home of his mother at Phanfield, N. J. They went to Phanfield and arrested Rodinson there. He confessed that he had strick Reynoids, but he claimed that he had great provecation for the blow. His story was that he and Reynoids had met a few times in a liquor store has eventh-six, and that Reynoids had to throw him on the floor. They med in the street not far from the liquor store soon afterward, and Reynoids again attempted to alose him. He then knocked Reynoids down and walked away.

Robinson was brought to this city yesterday, but Reynoids was hot in a condition to recognize him. It is sait that Reynoids will probably die from his injury. Robinson was locked up in the West Forty seventh-st police station to await the action of a coroner. tives learned late on Sunday night that Reynolds had 2HE GRAND JURY AND THE LOTTERIES.

Recorder Smyth opened yesterday the September term of the Court of General Sessions, and delivering his charge to the Grand Jury, of whom John N. Oleots, of No. 229 Broadway, is foreman, called their attention to the fact that there were 200 prisoners in the Tombs held for the action of the Jury. He then said that he desired to bring to their notice the fact that repeated violations of the lottery laws had occurred, and it had been said that until recently there were 500 or 600 places in the city where lettery tickets were sold.

or 600 places in the city where lottery tickets were sold. These offences had become so frequent that the Governor had issued a proclamation to which the Recorder called the attention of the jury. It was the duty of the District Attorney to bring these things to the notice of the Grand Jury, and it was their duty to imquire into these violations of the law. The Recorder also spoke of the sale of pools on races, which had become, he said, so common as aimost to be a public nuisance. This poolseling was clearly against the law, and it was the duty of the Grand Jury to inquire what offences had been committed and to indict the offenders.

District Attorney McKeon refused to say yesterday whether or not be expected to take any further action against violators of the law. He was very reticent regarding his purposes and declined to enter into any conversation that had even a remote bearing on his action toward pool-seliers and lottery-dealers. The cases against persons who were arrested for violations of the lottery laws would not be immediately brought to trial. The cases in which witheses were now in the House of Detention would be first tried, then those in which the prisoners had been unable to obtain ball, and tastly those in which ball had been taken. All the lottery-dealers and pool-sellers who were arrested had been released and bed

SENT TO WESTERN HOMES.

CONDITION OF A PARTY IN KANSAS. GRATIFYING LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE WITH WHOM THE CHILDREN WERE PLACED-ONLY

ONE BOY DISSATISFIED. Two parties of children were sent to the country last winter by Mr. Whitelaw Reid. Unlike the children of the Fresh Air Fund, they were not to return after a two weeks' vacation, but as one bright lad expressed it, they " went to stay." They were mostly street children, newsboys, bootblacks or those who had been saved from the streets and brutal parents by some charitable institutions. They were selected by the Children's Aid Society. and one of its officers accompanied them and saw them placed in nice country homes. The first party was taken to Culpeper, Va., and an account of the journey, the distribution of the children, and the present home of each child, was published recently

Two weeks after the party had started for Virginia Mr. Reid sent nineteen boys and eight girls to Kansas. Letters have been received from some of these children. None express dis-satisfaction, while all are full of thankful-ness because the writers have been "saved from the streets of New-York." The letters also contain urgent invitations to their friends in the city to "come to Kansas." The people of Lawrence gave the children a warm reception, and are eager to have a much larger number come there, as the party of twenty-seven children was too small to satisfy the reads:

We take great pleasure in expressing our entire satisfaction with her in every respect. We find her to be an intelligent, active and obedient child, and very quick to learn. We are people of middle age and have no children. White we shall endeavor to make such a nome for this little girl as she may in future years be grateful for, we corseives teel thankful that we have been so fortunate as to mid to our small family a child of such unusual qualities and interest. She is very much admired also by all our friends and acquaintances. We have excellent school advantages, and as soon as the fall term begins we shall send her to school.

An old man who has a boy only seven years old writes with a trembling hand:

My dangeter, a young lady of seventeen, happened to be at the place where the children were distributed and this boy appeared to like her, so she brought him nome. I consented to keep nim and now my wire would not part with him. He is smart and will do anything he can. I mave but two children—a daughter, and a son who is married. This boy I have says his parents drank beer and whiskey and smoked. I should like to know if that be true, in order that I may guard against such faults in him. If the boy lives I shall try to raise him right, as I have my own children.

Martin Regan, a former newsboy, is reported as Martin Regan, a former newsboy, is reported as doing well in a letter from Mr. Morrison, who says

of him:

Martin seems willing to learn farmwork. I think we will get along with him first rate. He seems to like to stay. We own a farm of 200 acres, sixteen miles from Leaven worth, and the same distance from Leaven week, and grain. We take Martin to a Free-system a church and Subbath school, and will send him to school when the winter term begins. It is a great responsibility to take a child in the family who has had such a poor home training, but we will look to the One who governs all taings to nelp us do right by him.

FOX-HUNTERS FIRED UPON.

STIRRING INCIDENTS OF THE LAST RUN OF THE SEA-SON AT NEWPORT.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 4.—The last fox bunt of the season occurred this afternoon, the meet being at Southwick's Grove, a charming spot. A copious rain feli from noon until about 3 o'clock, and from that hour until after the run the clouds locked very threatening. However, it was just the kind of a day for a genuine for hunt. There was a fair attendance at the meet. About thirty persons followed the hounds, including seven who were pink. It proved to be the best and most exciting run of the season. Soon after the start an irate farmer came out, gun in hand. His farm hands were " armed " with huge stones. The hunters were warned not to cross his premises, but, as they gave no sign that they meant to obey, the farmer fired, the shot coming very near to the face of William K. Thorn, jr , of New York. The they halled the hounds from the scent and reached to-

P. Lorillard, jr., and F. Gebhard, the master of the hounds, of New-York, and F. M. Ware, had serious fails. The run was the long-set and most exciting of the scason, in which nearly a circle was made, the island being covered before Reytard was run to the death. It was a last run, fouriern miles being made in savin-seven minutes. About twenty persons were in at the death, including Miss Haveneyer, of New-York, who was awaries the brush. The mask was given to F. M. Ware, and the pads were handed to W. C. Witherbee, C. G. Peters, Count Fitz James and E. D. Morgan, jr.

The fox, after being brought to view, jave the followers an exciting classe. AN EPIDEMIC OF DYSENTERY.

Boston, Sept. 4.—Dysentery is so prevalent a Ashburulami that it is almost epidemic. It is of a very malignant character. Fourteen cases have been reported and there have been several deaths. The Rev. M. D. Plake, pastor of the Congregational Church, is among the sick. The disease is attributed to the Impure con-dition of the water consequent upon the long drouth.
